a warning the troops: "Hark ye, to the subject of religion in general, and especially at this hour, I would call your attention to the subject observed by his excellency to-day by himself. His excellency said he was desirous to see the subject well pointed to you, the clergy. The subject intended for the day has been pointed out in the sermon. Most respectful to wish that you would be quick to catch him, the major

The money of the South paid for the first years. But the country, finding that the colonies had no money, sent B. to the States, asking them to lend or to share with him. He was refused, and he had to return and beg for money. He begged for money to pay for his passage, for his food, for his clothing, for his medicine, for his books, for his tools, for his house, for his family, for his friends, for his country, for his world. He begged for money for everything. He begged for money for his life. He begged for money for his death.
